

DR. ROSS TESTIFIES IN VAN AKEN TRIAL

"We are going to prove that Edwin Van Aken killed his wife under circumstances amounting to murder in the first degree and we will prove it beyond a reasonable doubt," declared District Attorney Cunningham this morning in his opening to the jury in the trial of Van Aken charged with murdering his wife at their home on Broadway in Port Ewen on October 22, 1914. The work of selecting the remaining three jurors occupied about half an hour at the opening of the morning session and the remainder of the morning session was taken up with the district attorney's address to the jury and the partial examination of Dr. George W. Ross of Port Ewen who lives across the street from the accused man.

Mr. Cunningham in his opening outlined the crime and said that Van Aken had carefully thought out the deed and had tried to establish an alibi to clear himself. He said that Van Aken had a motive for killing his wife in the solitude of their home with no other living eye to see the deed done and that the motive would be shown in the course of the trial. He said he would not attempt to outline the testimony to be given by the witnesses but would let the jury hear for themselves the story as told by the witnesses on the stand. He said that they must remember that this was a tragedy they were dealing with. Mr. Cunningham said that Van Aken left his house and went to the barn the day of the crime and it was just 12:15 o'clock when Van Aken left the barn to drive to Rondout and that his wife was not seen by any one after that time. An autopsy had been performed on the murdered woman which had showed how she met her death and the time of the death had been fixed.

The first witness called was Dr. George W. Ross who said he lived across the street from the Van Aken and had known both Van Aken and his wife for some time. He said on the day of the crime he had returned to his home about two o'clock that afternoon and shortly answered the telephone and found that Van Aken was talking and that he wanted the doctor to come over to the house. The doctor picked up his grip and went across the street and was admitted to the house through the kitchen door by Van Aken who said "Something awful has happened." The doctor said that Van Aken told him that he had left the house to go to Rondout for some meat and that upon his return his wife was going to cook lunch and then they were both going across the creek to Rondout. He said that Van Aken told him that when he left the house he left his desk locked and that when he returned he had found the lid on a crack and that some one had stolen around $200 from the drawer in the desk. Van Aken also said that he had left the kitchen door locked and when he came back from Rondout he had found it unlocked and open.

Taking up the first view he had of the body of the murdered woman the doctor said Van Aken took him upstairs and there in a bedroom off the hall he found Mrs. Van Aken lying on the floor. Her feet were toward the door they entered and her head lay in the direction of the door leading to a rear room. At her head was a pool of blood and there was a pool of blood at her feet. Dr. Ross said the room did not appear to have been disturbed and that the bed had been "made up." Mrs. Van Aken was fully dressed and had on her shoes and stockings.

The Wounds.
Dr. Ross described the wounds he found on the body. He said there were two wounds above the left eye apparently such as could be made by a blunt instrument. Both wounds were about an inch and a half long and gaped open a little over half an inch. At the top of the head was another wound longer than the two over the eye and her hair was full of clotted blood. There was a bloody towel at the feet and another bloody towel partly covered the head.

The face was dark and both knees were partially drawn up and the arms and hands were drawn up as though to protect her face. The feet were clenched. Her throat was blue and the doctor saw prints on the throat such as could be caused by finger prints and in places the skin was broken as though by finger nails. Her clothing was spotted with blood and there were spots of blood on the face.

Stockings Pulled Down.
Dr. Ross said that her skirt was pulled up to just below her knees and that both stockings had been unfastened and pulled down below the knees.

Going back to the pools of blood the doctor said that the one at her feet looked as though it had been partly wiped up and there was blood just near the door and a print of a heel where some one had evidently stepped in the pool of blood.

Was This the Weapon?
Dr. Ross said that the print of the heel was near the wall on which hung a fire extinguisher. The district attorney produced the fire extinguisher which was placed in evidence. It was about the size of a night stick such as carried by the local police but somewhat thicker.

What bearing the fire extinguisher had in the case was not brought out and it was simply placed in evidence.

Desk Was Robbed.
Dr. Ross said he examined the desk when Van Aken showed it to him. He said that in front of the small drawer where Van Aken said the missing money had been kept was a pile of letters about four inches high. Dr. Ross said that in order to pull out this small drawer it was necessary to move the letters.

Asked in regard to the appearance of the pile of letters he said that apparently they had not been disturbed.

Van Aken told him he said that he had locked the desk and had placed the key on top of the desk.

Dr. Ross told how he had asked Van Aken if he had notified the authorities and said that Van Aken had told him no and for the doctor to notify who he thought best. Dr. Ross said he called up Coroner E. A. Kelly and told him of the murder and asked him to notify the proper authorities.

District Attorney Cunningham by his questions endeavored to show that Van Aken went out of his way in going to the ferry by taking the back streets.

Mr. Brinnier who took up the cross examination of Dr. Ross attempted to prove that the reason why Van Aken went through Green street instead of down Broadway was due to the fact that Broadway is a state road and that Green street being a dirt road was easier on a horse's feet.

A number of photographs were also placed in evidence.

Court took a recess at 12:30 to 2 o'clock when the examination of Dr. Ross was again taken up.

All of the jurors on the extra panel were excused for the term and all of the jurors on the regular panel were excused until next Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

"NANCY" STABBED
ANOTHER NEGRO
In a fight between brickyard negroes at Kingston Point at an early hour this morning Edward Richardson was stabbed by a man thought to be William, alias, John Vass, sometimes known as Nancy. What the quarrel started over is not known but the police are trying to find the assailant who made his getaway as soon as the affray was over. Richardson is in the hospital with a wound in his chest and it was only a narrow chance that the knife used did not penetrate his heart and cause death. At the Kingston City Hospital it was said today that Richardson's condition was very favorable and as yet there were no serious results contemplated. Sergeant Murray responded to the call for the ambulance and took Dr. Frank Keator with him. Owing to Richardson's condition he was taken at once to the hospital and the flow of blood staunching. He was weak from loss of blood and the wonder of the physicians at the hospital was that he had survived the savage thrust. No trace of Vass has been seen and it is supposed he took a rowboat and crossed the river. Vass is described as being about 23 years old, five feet seven inches tall, weighs about 160 pounds and wore a light checked suit, cap, and had a smooth face. The police have been busy all day looking for him but have failed to find any trace of his whereabouts since the stabbing occurred.

WILSON WARNS MEXICAN LEADERS

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, June 2.—President Wilson today served warning upon the leaders of various factions in Mexico "to act together and to act promptly for the relief and redemption of their prostrate country," or the United States "will be constrained to decide what means should be employed in order to help Mexico save herself and serve her people."

The president suggests that the administration will lend its "active moral support" to some man or group of men, if such may be found, who can rally the suffering people of Mexico in an effort to ignore if they cannot unite, the warring factions of the country.

This is the only hint given by the Chief Executive as to the "means" to be employed should the leaders not be able to agree on terms of peace, and end the deplorable conditions in the republic which have brought it to the point of starvation and caused the people to "cry out for food."

President Wilson's statement on Mexico follows:

"For more than two years revolutionary conditions have existed in Mexico. The purpose of the revolution was to rid Mexico of men who ignored the constitution of the republic and used their powers in contempt of the rights of its people and with these purposes the president of the U. S. instinctively and generously sympathized. But the leaders of the revolution, in the very hour of their success, have disagreed and turned their arms against one another. All professing the same objects, they are nevertheless unable or unwilling to co-operate. A central authority at Mexico City is no sooner set up than it is undermined and its authority denied by those who were expected to support it. Mexico is apparently no nearer a solution of her tragical troubles than she was when the revolution was first kindled. And she has been swept by civil war as if by fire. Her crops are destroyed, her fields lie unseeded, her work cattle are confiscated for the use of the armed factions, her people flee to the mountains to escape being drawn into unavailing bloodshed and no man seems to see or lead the way to peace and settled order. There is no proper protection either for her own citizens or for the citizens of other nations resident and at work within her territory. Mexico is starving and without a government.

"In these circumstances the president and government of the U. S. cannot stand indifferently by and do nothing to serve their neighbor. They want nothing for themselves. In Mexico, least of all do they desire to settle her affairs for her or claim any right to do so. But neither do they wish to see utter ruin come upon her and they deem it their duty as friends and neighbors to lend any aid they properly can to any instrumentality which promises to be effective in bringing about a settlement which will embody the real objects of the revolution—constitutional government and the rights of the people. Patriotic Mexicans are sick at heart and cry out for peace and for every self-sacrifice that may be necessary to procure it.

"Her people cry out for food and will presently hate as much as they fear every man, in their country or out of it, who stands between them and their daily bread.

"It is time therefore that the government of the U. S. should frankly state the policy which in these extraordinary circumstances, it becomes its duty to adopt. It must presently do what it has not hitherto done or felt at liberty to do, lend its active moral support to some man or group of men, if such man can be found, who can rally the suffering people of Mexico to their support in an effort to ignore, if they cannot unite, the warring factions of the country, return to the constitution of the republic, so long in abeyance, and set up a government at Mexico City, which the great powers of the world can recognize and deal with, a government with whom the program of the revolution will be a business and not merely a platform. I therefore, publicly and very solemnly, call upon the leaders of factions in Mexico to act together and to act promptly for the relief and redemption of their prostrate country. I feel it to be my duty to tell them that if they cannot accommodate their differences and unite with this great purpose within

STRIKE THREATENED ON CHICAGO ROADS

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Chicago, June 2.—Only the granting of the wage demands made by the employees of the surface and elevated railways can avert a strike of 11,000 street car conductors and motormen and 3,500 elevated train guards, according to labor leaders today. Announcement of the vote of the men on the question of striking and tying up all of Chicago's transportation lines showed 9,716 for a strike and only 112 against.

William G. Quinn, president of the Street Carriers' Union, declared the men would not agree to arbitration of their differences with the companies.

"We got the worst of arbitration three years ago," he said, "and this year we propose to fight for our rights. We will not waste any more time with the company officials, either. The city receives 55 per cent of the transportation net profits and we want to deal direct with the city officials."

Labor leaders today were keeping secret the hour that the strike is to be called, but it was understood the order would be issued early some morning in the next few days.

AN INCUBATOR FIRE. Lamp Exploded and Caused Some Damage Before Extinguished.

A lamp in an incubator in the tool house in the rear of the Charles Merritt property on Clinton avenue exploded a few minutes before seven o'clock Tuesday evening and set fire to the building. A quantity of paint and tar paper stored in the building began burning and gave off huge clouds of black smoke, which caused many people uptown to imagine that the Senate House was afire. A still alarm sent to Wiltwyck Hose Company and the Central fire station was followed by an alarm from box No. 94, corner of Fair and North Front streets, and Wiltwyck and Excelsior Hose Companies and the Central Hook & Ladder Company responded. The blaze burned stubbornly for a few minutes but gave way to the firemen with comparatively slight damage to the building. A quantity of tools stored in the place was burned, as was the incubator. The roof of a chicken house in the rear of the yard of Sherwood Lodge adjoining was burned slightly, the tar paper giving off a great deal of smoke.

The reports of the committees for the month of May were read and passed. The report of the treasurer showed a tidy little sum in the treasury. Plans for a "Hare and Hound" social to be held on the evening of Friday, June 18, were discussed. Each member will have the privilege of bringing a friend with them to the social. It was decided to send the sum of ten dollars, mission money, to the Kentucky Mountaineers. After other routine business was disposed of, the meeting adjourned, after which refreshments were served.

A call has been issued signed by one hundred distinguished Americans for the holding of a conference in Independence Hall, Philadelphia, on the 17th of June, to consider the adoption of proposals for a league of all nations sworn to peace. It is proposed to form a league upon lines entirely different from any heretofore contemplated, in that it is intended that all nations which join it shall use their joint military powers to prevent any member of the league from resorting to the use of arms before resort to an international tribunal. If the differences cannot be adjusted before such a tribunal, then it is proposed that they shall be submitted to an international council of conciliation. Among the signers to the call are ex-President Taft, Dr. A. Lawrence Lowell, president of Harvard University, Dr. David Starr Jordan, chancellor of Leland Stanford University, Cardinal Gibbons of Baltimore, Henry Belmont, Oscar S. WEST PARK.

West Park, June 2.—A very reverent and impressive memorial service was held in Ascension Church on Sunday afternoon at 3:30. A very large congregation gathered and the address by Judge Alton B. Parker held the fullest attention of all. The orator told of the great and permanent work of the Fathers of the Republic of 1776 and later and how there was wrought at that time the enshrining in the American constitution of the principles of pure Democracy, the rule of the people by themselves. It was shown also how the patriotic men of ‘61 completed the work of their elders up to that date, and how the people of the United States have ever shown and are now showing to the world that there is one safe and welcome refuge for all the people who desire the works and fruits of perfect freedom.

After the service many spoke of their enjoyment and appreciation of the address. Many of the flowers in the church were afterwards taken to the cemetery and placed upon the graves of six veteran soldiers and sailors and the resting place of the Rev. Henry Beers Sherman, a former rector of Ascension Church.

Col. O. H. Payne’s yacht Aphrodite came up the river on Saturday and returned to New York on Tuesday.

Mrs. Taylor of New York is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Edward Dick. It is expected that Ascension Church and the rectory will be wired for electric lighting this week, although the lines may not be connected for a long time. As there is the purpose of redecorating the church very shortly, it was deemed a wise thing to wire the church and rectory so as to be ready for electricity when it came. It will take nearly all the month of June to have this important work accomplished and the church will probably be closed after June 6 until the first Sunday in July.

While the automobile of the Misses Washburn of Saugerties was standing on Fair street, opposite the Kingston opera house this afternoon, an auto truck of William Derrenbacher smashed into the rear of it and broke a rear mud guard in addition to giving the occupants a good shaking up. BRAVES FORCED TO SETTLE OWN FINES

TYLER GOWDY

When President James F. Gaffney of the Braves refused to allow his club to pay fines of $50 and $25 imposed by President Tener on Gowdy and Tyler for abusing an umpire he set a new record in professional baseball that fans all over the country will heartily applaud.

The public, who in the last analysis pays for everything connected with the game—including fines heretofore paid by the clubs when one of their players was taxed for misbehavior—is getting tired of the rough stuff on the diamond.

FASTING IS PLAYER'S HOBBY

How Al Bridwell of St. Louis Federalists Keeps in Condition—Takes Good Care of His Health.

Al Bridwell, with the St. Louis Federal league team, is one of the best preserved men in baseball. Al is past thirty-one years of age and is still spry enough to forbid his being replaced by a younger man. In his day he has led all shortstops as a fielder and he retains still a large part of the wonderful ability which made him famous when with the New York Giants. Not only is he covering second for Manager Jones this year, but in all probability he will be seen in the same position for the next few years to come.

Bridwell is a clean liver. He takes particularly good care of his health. One peculiarity he resorts to in keeping himself in the best of condition is fasting. He never eats lunch and his meals in the morning and evening are very light ones.

At the time he was playing semi-professional ball he went for five days in a stretch without a bite to eat. The only nourishment he took during this and other periods of fast was water. Some years ago, in the winter time, Al went for a full week without food. He has gone this length of time on two separate occasions, and during this time he was putting in ten hours a day for six days a week, working over a machine in a shoe factory.

"When I have played my last game of baseball, I am going to continue with athletics just as industriously and regularly as I have for years past," says Bridwell. "I will take up handball, boxing and bag punching and by this means I hope to keep in good physical condition as long as I am alive and kicking."

Change in Time.

Eastern time is to be used by the Detroit ball club in the future. Games are to be started there about an hour earlier than in the past.

Success.

The Greeks had a foot race in which speed and endurance were not the only tests. Each man at the start was given a lighted torch, and the laurel wreath was for the one who came in first, "with his torch alight." Success in life is not merely reaching the goal, but more important still, in keeping the light of God burning in our hurried souls.—Exchange.

Preparing for the Future.

Frank, who had just entered school, came home one day and began fighting his brother, two years younger. His mother protested at such performance, when he turned to her and said: "Mamma, I have to teach him to fight because when he goes to school some day I may not be with him if a fellow hits him, and he must know how to fight."

The Bilious Optimist.

When a man with noticeable bilious eyes and liver spots on the projections of his face "lays himself out" to talk optimism to us, something seems to whisper to us that he is bluffing himself (or us) for some little purpose of his own. Because when a bilious person talks optimism, his conversation suggests a superabundance of expository motivation, so to speak.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

Distinction of Terms.

"Of course you favor the uplift?" "I don't know," replied the busy man. "I'm a plain, practical person. Sometimes I think the uplift depends too much on literature and science. What I favor is the boost."

Beautiful Scenes Uplift.

A beautiful scene uplifts the spirit within us until it is strong enough to overlook the shadows of our place of probation; it breaks, link after link, the chain that binds us to materiality; and opens to our imagination a world of spiritual beauty and holiness.—Rus-

BRAGA BECOMES PRESIDENT OF PORTUGAL.

Lisbon, June 2.—Theophile Braga, elected President of Portugal by the National Assembly, received an enormous ovation when he appeared in the Congressional Hall at Lisbon at 7 o'clock last night. He handed to the President of Congress a message in which he expressed devotion to the ideals of a democratic and parliamentary republic, pledging himself to take no steps of an autocratic nature.

KINGSTON, N. Y., JUNE 2, 1915.

A letter in a New York paper asks why it is that Saratoga water costs twice as much as beer to the consumer. It is certainly a great mystery. The State of New York uses a couple million dollars of the money of the taxpayers to acquire a reservation, and then puts an almost prohibitive price on the product. It is only fair to say, however, that the price of all bottled waters is extortionate. Beer is made in expensive plants with big overhead charges, and its ingredients are costly, while water comes free out of the earth. This is something which should be inquired into by the temperance organizations. It looks very much as though the Demon Rum is back of a wicked conspiracy.

China has been so harassed by the various nations which have endeavored to exploit her that she has arrived at the belief that the United States is her only friend. At least, that is what is said by the "Honorary Commercial Commissioners of the Republic of China," who are now in New York City. These Commissioners are not mere politicians, as might be expected by one familiar only with our national custom, but are real merchants, including in their number the richest man in the whole country. Incidentally, these visitors have placed orders here for five million dollars worth of goods. This is an indication of what will come later if our business men are sufficiently awake to see the opportunity. China is in a position like that of a private individual who has been persecuted and cheated by crooked supply houses for years and turns at last to an establishment which has never made an effort to get his trade but which he considers honest. This Chinese movement is doubtless the explanation of Japan's recent efforts to close partially the "open door."

One of the proposals before the Constitutional Convention is to abolish the exemption of church and similar property from taxation. It is improbable that this amendment will be put into the new Constitution, since it is feared by many of its friends that it might jeopardize the adoption of the Constitution, but it is encouraging to observe that at a public hearing on the question a number of pastors of churches made arguments on the affirmative side. The Rev. Dr. Bolger, representing the churches of Elmira, said: "Men have come to me time and again and asked me what right the church has to appear as the exponent of civic righteousness when it dodges its share of the taxes." That hits the nail on the head. Any institution which deliberately impoverishes itself impairs its influence and lowers itself in popular estimation. It is not generally realized that according to the latest official figures the aggregate value of private property exempt from taxation in this State is $654,486,829—substantially two-thirds of a billion dollars. The only argument ever advanced in justification is that the churches do much good. If this were so, then all good men should be relieved of taxation, leaving sinners to do all the paying.

Champ Clark declares that "President Wilson should not be hampered by anybody going about the country giving out interviews about what should or should not be done." While this is true regarding men holding high Government offices, it is not true regarding private citizens. Discussion is one of the best methods of getting at the truth of things, and men who have the power to think do wrong in suppressing their views. It is their God-given duty and privilege to lead lesser minds. The men who only think they think do no harm by talking also, since they are "sized up" by their hearers and exercise no influence. There is no danger that the newspapers will give wide circulation to their ideas. Speaker Clark also says: "If I could reach out and grab by the neck every jingo in this country and put him into the trenches in Europe, I would be glad to do it." Now, if there are any "jingos" in this country they have kept the fact to themselves. In the present crisis we have not heard or seen any bloodthirsty expressions. No sane citizen wants a war with Germany or anybody else. Nevertheless, there are few of us who would not prefer war to a cowardly yielding of our undoubted rights. There is a middle ground between the bully and the poltroon, and there nearly all of us stand. Men not physically able to fight in the trenches have as much right to express their opinions as anybody else. Perhaps more so. Old men for counsel, young men for war, is an ancient maxim.

WALKING CLUBS.

(By Our Woman Editor.)

An organization of school children, with the sole object of encouraging pedestrianism, its attendant pleasures and advantages, seems to be a move in a very pleasant direction. Such an organization leads to familiarity with the town, and when the walks branch out into the outlying country districts and closer acquaintance with the newer scenes is possible, it marks the beginning of a pleasure as delightful as it is exhilarating.

In larger cities the little squads of walkers have rather more of interest to cover, and it takes longer to learn about the historic, picturesque and commercial advantages of their home towns, but when they leave pavements behind and tramp out in the open, all are on the same level, and all are walking toward the establishment of a pleasure which will not pass with the flight of boyhood and girlhood.

It seems hardly the most sensible thing in the world to consult a wise specialist in matters of health, only to be told that all we need is freer exercise, more air, more water and less coddling. He preaches from the familiar text of "Walk More," and preaches it conscientiously, in spite of the fees that drift his way from failure to abide by the instruction.

For nervous disturbances, we are told to walk and to drink in deep draughts of tonic-laden air; when digestion goes awry the prescription of long walks comes into play again, and if folk would retain the sliver of grace of early days, walking is at least a good beginning for that cherished end.

But we have not learned our lessons very well, and even boys and girls who have no real excuse for their unwillingness to walk seem to count it a hardship if they cannot turn to the cars to furnish the energy they lack.

It is more or less a matter of habit and education, and if begun in childhood and carried through the years that follow it grows into a pleasure that cannot be discarded without the consciousness that one is skipping something that tones the days and the system in ways that nothing else can approach.

A retired teacher, who now takes daily walks, whether the sun shines or the rain falls, and follows the course for miles, declares that when he closed the door of the school-room he left behind all the accumulated ills of years when doors and windows were barred to fresh air, and he had not learned to walk to the music of growing health. He says he feels the weight of years and the marks of ill health dropping away for every mile he travels.

Do you sometimes look out on a little patch of blue sky, sandwiched between great blocks of business houses or long rows of city dwellings, else glance up as it arches overhead and wonder if you could not manage to steel from the pursuits of the day a little more time for play?

Recently a business woman was enjoying the tonic of a morning walk, and as she approached the office she heard two men in animated conversation. As she passed, one gave utterance to what he regarded a grievous complaint. He was so intensely in earnest and apparently felt the force of his question so keenly that the mere business woman felt almost minded to answer. With a gesture, as if in condemnation of the bad, bad practice, he asked his companion: "In our offices, how many young women are at their desks on the stroke of the hour?"

She was late—she generally is—and tardiness in life is a pretty bad habit, but as she tried to drive the question home she could not help dwelling more upon that other question of big-mindedness which gives to the head of any business concern appreciation of the fact that there is something worth more to him than minutes, and that if a worker brings to his service a clear mind, a fund of enthusiasm and a system freshened by contact with the pure air and stimulated by the long walk, the theft of time is more than made good by the quality of work. Less of the machine and more of the individual and work is not robbed of its spirit. One has about an equal degree of contempt for an employee whose mind ever intent upon the passing-hour and the employer who rudely, if at all, grants time for relaxation and the freshening of vigor.

If when we were children, longing for amusement and dreaming of great days to come, someone had told us that one of our chief pleasures, if one of our quietest, would be a walk, with an appreciative friend, through country fascinating in its newness, we could not have been made to believe it; but those long walks, once we learn to enjoy them, are stimulating and tonic to body and mind.

And as we walk, we walk right away from our worries.

FRANCES SHAFFER.

NINE VAN AKEN JURORS FIRST DAY

All of Tuesday afternoon's session of county court was taken up with the work of selecting the jury to try Edwin Van Aken, charged with murdering his wife at their home in Port Ewen and before court took a recess until this morning at 10 o'clock nine of the twelve jurors had been selected and the work of securing the remaining three jurors was taken up this morning.

Did Not Believe in Death Penalty.

Elmer Hammond of No. 129 O'Neil street said he was a carpenter and did not believe in the death penalty and would never convict a man on circumstantial evidence alone. He was challenged by the district attorney and excused by the court.

E. A. Reynolds of Milton said he was a merchant and not opposed to the death penalty. Excused by Mr. Brinnier.

John DeWitt of Marlborough was not opposed to the death penalty. Excused by Mr. Brinnier.

L. L. Bagendorf of Zena said he had formed an opinion that it would take evidence to remove. Challenge-ed by Mr. Brinnier and excused by the court.

Brinnier Once a Member.

John Rourke of No. 71 East Chester street, said he had never acted as a juror before. He knew all the lawyers in the case he said and knew Van Aken just by sight.

"What organizations do you belong to?" asked Mr. Brinnier.

"Just one," replied Mr. Rourke smiling "and that was one you used to belong to but you left."

"What was that," queried Mr. Brinnier.

"The Republican Club," replied Mr. Rourke while all in the court room smiled.

He was accepted as juror No. 7. Frances Garrison of Wallkill said he was opposed to the death penalty and was challenged by the district attorney and excused by the court.

Court at 5 o'clock then took a recess until this morning.

MISSION BOX APPRECIATED.

Former Kingston School Teacher

Writes an Appreciative Letter.

Shortly after Easter, the women of the Woman's Auxiliary of St. John's Episcopal Church this city sent a large mission box of clothing, etc., to the Rutherford Associate Mission, Rutherfordton, North Carolina. At the meeting of the auxiliary on Tuesday, the following letter which had been received by the secretary, Mrs. Snow, was read, and will prove of interest to other Kingstonians than those immediately connected with St. John's Church. It was as follows:

Rutherford Associate Mission, Rutherfordton, N. C., May 15, 1915.

My Dear Mrs. Snow:

The wonderful box from St. John's Auxiliary arrived a few days ago and I cannot begin to tell you how we appreciate everything it contained and what a help it will be in our work. The contents were just what we needed.

The shoes and stockings, the boys' blouses, the girls' and baby dresses, the hats, the many new waists and dresses for women, the men's shirts and the suit, etc., etc., everything will find its place sooner or later and each article will make some one happy.

The pieces of new material, outing flannel, crepe, and the dress pattern of black and white will be of great service in our guilds next fall in teaching the girls to sew. For we are hoping for a new, little parish house where we can reach many older girls and boys who cannot come to school and yet who need help and encouragement so greatly.

Will you please extend our most grateful thanks to each one who in any way contributed to our box. Without your help and work for us, our hands would be tied, indeed.

Dr. Lobdell sends his greetings to each of you and we all join in many thanks.

Very sincerely yours,

LOUISE H. FOSTER.

Distinguished Doctor Here.

Dr. Henry W. A. Haase, who has within the past few days come to Kingston to take up his residence and to practice here, is a man of distinction in the medical world, and Kingston is especially favored in that he has located here. Henry Haase, M. D., was born in New York city of Dutch ancestry, and was graduated from the New York University. For six months after his graduation, Dr. Haase taught pathology at the university. Twenty-seven years ago he left for Europe where he held a position in the clinics of Professors Koch, Aschoff von Bergman in Germany; Bilroth and Notgann in Austria. Furthermore, Dr. Haase headed a scientific research commission for the study of yellow and blackwater fever, berri berri and sleeping sickness through Brazil, Argentina, Gold Coast, East and Central Africa, India and Egypt and also accompanied Dr. Koch to Africa and India, for the study of the rinderpest and bubonic plague. He has very recently landed in this country from Belgium, where for ten years he has held the position of pathologist in Liege. He was obliged to leave Belgium because of the present war. Dr. Haase will have his residence and office at No. 670 Broadway, telephone call, 404, where he will specialize in diseases of the lungs, heart and stomach. Dr. Haase expects in a short time to be joined by his wife and son who are now in New York city.

FILLING TEETH

We try to save every tooth that is worth saving. A healthy, carefully filled natural tooth is better than any kind of artificial one.

By our methods of filling each tooth is cleaned very carefully and gently, but with absolute thoroughness. Every particle of decay or unhealthy tooth structure is removed. We are scrupulously particular in this respect.

We disinfect and make aseptic every cavity. If the nerve is exposed, we treat it so that it will not cause trouble later. Whatever filling we decide to use, we put in so that it will stay in and make the tooth perfectly sound.

Filling diseased teeth so carefully and skillfully has given us a good reputation for this branch of dental science.

Don't neglect cavities in your teeth until the walls are too thin. Come at once, when a filling can save the tooth.

Open evenings 9 to 11. Sundays 9 to 11.

MAJOR CHANDLER'S PLEA FOR READINESS

The New York Mail of Tuesday night gives an interesting account of the exercises at Van Cortlandt Park on Tuesday when the twenty odd officers who have been under instruction in the School of the Line were graduated. This is the first class of the state's contingent of 22,000 of highly trained men to be ready for a real campaign when Uncle Sam calls. This force will be but part of the 352,000 of the country's first line forces. This course has been established at the Seventy-first Regiment armory and has been under the direction of Major General John F. O'Ryan. The plan has been not to educate a few highly trained officers but to educate all company commanders along advanced lines, and they in turn to obtain results with their respective commands.

According to the plans laid down by General O'Ryan the state must provide for a first line of sixteen divisions with auxiliary troops. As the division numbers 22,000 troops at war strength these divisions would mean 352,000 men. Of the sixteen, four will be furnished by the regular army and twelve by the organized militia of the country. This division consists of three brigades of infantry of three regiments each, one regiment of cavalry, brigade of two regiments of field artillery, a battalion of signal troops, three field hospitals, four ambulance companies and necessary trains. In addition to these the state must contribute its quota for coast defense, there being thirty-four companies of coast artillery organized into three commands.

Major Chandler of this city was the principal speaker at the graduation exercises and the Mail gave considerable space for his remarks on the subject of "The Need of Higher Education for Company Commanders." Dr. Chandler said that it was only a matter of chance that the war was raging in the eastern continent instead of the western continent. Despite the progress the world had made in the past 6,000 years of written history it had brought not peace but war, the greatest ever waged. A turn of the wheel of fate and we too may be involved in as fierce a struggle. We must be educated for it. The more officers and the better educated they are the better shall we be prepared. This applies as well to the state troops as to the regular army. The history of the Civil War shows that the volunteers were as important as the regulars. Should we become involved today every soldier in the state militia would be called upon and would be eligible later on to higher commands. He urged all officers to acquire all the knowledge that opportunities permit.

The speaker held that the captain of state troops should have the drill regulations and mechanics of armory work at his fingers' ends. While he must supervise and throw enthusiasm into the company the drilling and detail work should be done by the lieutenants so that the captain could study the art of war. The art of war has been divided into two great branches, strategy and tactics. Strategy has been defined as the moving of battles and tactics as the moving of troops in battle. Tactics is open to all nations and all men. We can only learn this from history and the textbook is open to all. He spoke of Grant as primarily a tactician and through experience and study he had gained knowledge of principles which later were to make him famous.

Major Chandler suggested an eight inch shelf of books containing Infantry Drill Regulations, Field Service Regulations, Notes on Artillery, by Captain Scott, Lecture on the Use of Cavalry by Captain Haines, Steele's American Campaign, Letters on Applied Tactics and The Rifle in War. In this connection he said that he was not alone in thinking if there ever was war it would be in this country and not in foreign lands. The speaker also spoke of the influence of politics in the army. He also gave examples of generals in the Civil War who were good drill masters and splendid defensive fighters but could not master the higher principles of the strategic work.

In driving an automobile, the speaker said, it was well to assume that the person approaching from the opposite direction was a fool, but in the conduct of war we must always give the enemy the credit of judgment as good as our own.

Major Chandler urged on the graduates the necessity of careful studying of maps and regulations concerning the duties of the militia and related a number of incidents in the lives of great generals such as Napoleon, Grant, Lee, Jackson and others to show the absolute importance of strategy and tactics in the work of the commander.

JULIA STARTED FOR KINGSTON

Headquarters for the carnival to be held in Kingston during the week of the firemen's convention were opened today in the Lasher building on Wall street nearly opposite the court house.

This week the carnival company is holding a carnival at Mount Vernon for the benefit of the fire department of that place, and the New York Times of today gives an account of the exciting chase for Julia, one of the tame lionesses owned by the carnival company. Julia got loose from her fastenings and started to lope northward. It was supposed by the trainers, detectives, police, firemen and citizens who started in pursuit that she had been hearing the manager talk about Kingston and was so anxious to get here that she started ahead of time. The manager's friends, and in fact all the residents of Mount Vernon who ever have visited Kingston, felt that that was what they would like to do too.

After accomplishing permanent reforms among a number of belated Mount Vernon citizens whose wives have labored with them unsuccessfully for many years, Julia took to the meadows. There her pursuers began to close in on her when she turned. All of the posse turned at the same instant except one farmer, whom it was discovered later had caught his trousers in a pitchfork he was carrying, one end of which had become embedded in a tree when he tried to turn. After kicking the laborer's face, Julia continued along the old post road until she came to a recently erected apartment house, where she leaped to the second story balcony and went to sleep.

Julia is again in captivity and will be one of the attractions during the carnival here. Her anxiety to reach Kingston is appreciated by all local firemen and she will be given a hearty welcome.

WOODSTOCK.

Woodstock, June 2.—Rev. O. B. Noren, a student in Hartwick Seminary, preached in the Lutheran Church Sunday morning. Every two weeks he is to preach until July and August when he will be on the ground through vacation every Sunday.

Twadell's bus is on the road from West Hurley to Woodstock, Bearsville and Shady. It carries both passengers and baggage. Francis Simpkins is the chauffeur.

Royal Quick is conducting a live business with his automobile. He is ready on telephone call for service. He makes regular trips to West Hurley to meet trains.

Harry Short is to do livery service with his cars this summer as heretofore. He stands ready to serve the public with a fine equipment.

The bus line to Saugerties has rented Albert Cashdollar's garage for their convenience and a morning train down, 8:29, and an afternoon train down, 5:21, are met on the West Shore. A fuller schedule will be given in the near future. We understand that Albert Cashdollar is to run as one of the chauffeurs.

The school entertainment held in Firemen's Hall last Saturday evening was a success. The children were well drilled and took their parts admirably. Refreshments were served during the exercises. The receipts were about $75. The net proceeds the teacher, Miss Richter, hands over to the trustees to be used for whatever purpose they choose to designate.

Memorial Day services in the Reformed Church were well attended. There was a most able address by the Hon. Alfred D. Van Buren of Kingston. The Mechanics, the Odd Fellows, the Sunday school children, the fire and drum corps and a few old soldiers, the honored men of the occasion, formed the procession that marched to martial music through the town and to the cemetery, where decorations were placed on the graves of the veterans. There were five soldiers present who participated in the civil war fifty years past. Mr. Smith of New York city, who had charge of the services, Joseph Gridley of Shady, Robert Drenen of Lake Hill, Stephen Howard of Woodstock and J. B. Hoyt of Shady.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Reynolds of New York city visited Mr. and Mrs. Larry Elwyn, the parents of Mr. Reynolds, over Memorial Day.

Dorothy and Albert Vosburgh visited their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Elwyn, over Memorial Day. The Riseley House entertained over forty guests over Memorial Day.

Charles Maguire made his usual visit to Woodstock at this time of the year. He was formerly a resident here and his father and mother are buried here.

We understand that the road to the Overlook Mountain House has been completed and that automobiles have been over it to the house. There is a rumor that an auto bus will run from West Hurley to the above named house during the boarding season and that the house will be opened for guests.

The trustees of this district have engaged Miss Peterson, who taught the school at Zena the past year, to teach the advanced department of the Woodstock school, and Miss Smith of Catskill, who has formerly taught in Malden, to teach the primary department. Miss Richter, who taught in Woodstock the past year, is to teach school at Shady the coming year.

The memorial service in the M. E. Church Sunday evening was well attended and a very able address was given by Rev. Henry Brink, of the Reformed Church.

The New York Art League's summer school has opened with a fair number of students with Prof. Carlson as instructor. A good year so far as numbers are concerned, is anticipated.

Cheap Because It Is Good

The new 1915 Auburns are brand new cars and give more for the money.

You save money, and get a better car, by buying of a successful and permanent factory. Beware of the car whose big argument in its favor is its "cut price." The Auburn is truly a cheap car, one you can afford to buy and afford to drive. It is cheap because it is good. A car that is not properly designed, not properly built and not properly guaranteed by a solid factory, is not an economical car no matter how low the price is. Then there is the extra pleasure your Auburn gives you, greater power, greater comfort and convenience, and a longer life and satisfaction. You are never uneasy when driving your Auburn, but always confident and safe. Judge these new Auburn cars by their Looks, Comfort, Convenience, and their Performance. MEMORIAL DAY AT HIGH FALLS

High Falls, June 2.—Half past two on the thirtieth of May. The day was one of exquisite beauty. Mother Nature was certainly at her best. The quiet little hamlet of High Falls lay bathed in the summer sunshine. Yes, how peaceful it lay, this little village which in the spring of 1861 had so proudly and gladly responded to the call of Abraham Lincoln. As the bell pealed out its message the people slowly wended their way toward the old Clove Church to pay their homage to those noble old veterans, so many of whom had already joined the vast army and were answering to that roll call over yonder.

The exercises opened with the singing of Come Thou Almighty King, after which all joined in the Lord's prayer. Elizabeth Weber then gave a recitation entitled "When Grandpa Wears his Uniform." Jesse Barnhart recited "The Blue and the Gray." Ella Schwela, Pauline Ham and Leona Stokes also rendered suitable recitations. Allen Goetz then read the roster after which all joined in singing "Onward, Christian Soldier." Rev. D. W. Thorpe of Catskill then gave the address. Rev. Thorpe said: We have come here today with a twofold purpose, to honor the living and the dead. To honor those who have sacrificed their lives to preserve the union. Many times we consider things common because we see them daily. There is an old saying that familiarity breeds contempt. Look at the beautiful flowers shedding forth their fragrance, the trees clad in their robes of green, the grass in the meadows, all are symbols of God's infinite love. All are endowed with life from above, yet they too must answer the summons. The leaves change to crimson and gold and brown. How beautiful are their autumnal colorings. They seem too glorious to die but the frost comes, they are nipped from the stem and fall to the ground, to be swept before the wind. The flowers in all their beauty must wither and die. You have listened to the roll call. How few of those brave soldiers are left to respond? How many are answering the roll up yonder?

In the year of 1861 when Lincoln called for troops how eagerly they set forth to fight for the preservation of the union. In my mind's eye I can see them as they march away under the haunting flags. I can hear the music of the drums, the voices of the bugles. I can see them march down the streets, down to the fields of glory to do and die for eternal right. I can see them on the battle field and in the prison. Night after night they lie down to sleep with no covering, no shelter save the starry canopy overhead. In my mind's eye I see them in the conflict at the battle of Antietam, Chattanooga, Missionary Ridge and Lookout Mountain. I see them pierced by balls and torn with shells, unable to move, often dying with thirst, as their life blood ebbs away. One may hear the name of mother or sweetheart fall from their lips. They are thinking of home and heaven, where they will soon answer to the call. To those loved ones who are waiting at home the news comes that the heroes are dead. They are at rest. In the midst of battle in the roar of the conflict they found the serenity of death. What is more fitting than these decorations of Old Glory? The red stands for the blood which they so freely shed for their union, the union which we today hold so dear; the white is a type of purity. It stands for the purity of our laws and institutions, and the blue represents the starry canopy. Here the brave soldiers rest in God's vast mausoleum while the angels keep guard overhead. Well might we honor the stars and stripes and the brave veterans who fought to uphold the starry banner, who when Lincoln called went out with the song upon their lips, We're Coming, Father Abraham, a Hundred Thousand Strong.

When attending a circus one day I noticed the man ahead of me would take off his hat frequently. I wondered why and when I arose and looked around I saw that when ever Old Glory appeared he took off his hat. I liked that man for doing it. We can not show too much respect to Old Glory or the brave veterans of 1861.

An old soldier as he limped along the street clad in a faded old uniform and wearing on the lapel of his coat that pin so dear to every soldier heart attracted considerable attention. He went into the depot and shortly afterward a gentleman came in.

This gentleman apparently was a stranger to everyone in the room, but seeing the old soldier he walked up to him and grasping him by the hand with friendly greeting he asked him whether he was bound. The old soldier said he was going to the Old Soldiers' Home. Have you had your breakfast, the man inquired. I had a slice of bread and a cup of coffee, the soldier answered. Where are you going to get your dinner? the man questioned. I do not know, replied the old soldier. Well, I do, said the gentleman, and he took the old soldier to a restaurant and placing the bill of fare before him he told him to order what he wished. After the meal he took him over and purchased some cigars. He filled his coat pockets. Then he said good bye to the old soldier and turned to leave. Wait, cried the old soldier, as the gentleman turned away; what is your name? That is not necessary for you who are still with us, with a pleasant smile and a friendly handclasp. The old soldier will appreciate my wish for the boys and girls who are here today, to be the future citizens, is that they may grow up to be manly men and womanly women.

The Rev. Mr. Thorpe concluded his speech by wishing long life and prosperity to the people of High Falls. The Rev. Mr. Agnew then thanked the people for their help toward the fund which had been used for the purpose of clearing up the cemeteries

Town to Build Road.

Through the efforts of Supervisor John D. Frasher of Saugerties the state highway department will probably have the work on the Saugerties-Woodstock road from the village of Saugerties to the Clove road done by residents of that town instead of having the job let by contract. As many of the quarries in that town are idle now and the bluestone industry is quiet there are many men out of work. Mr. Frasher has been in touch with the highway department and it is practically agreed that the work can be done as well under direction of the town superintendent of highways with competent home labor. The town board has offered its co-operation and ordered a scrapper at a cost not to exceed $300 toward the completion of the work.

Zeeh Succeeds Rafferty.

Mayor Canfield has appointed Former Alderman Peter P. Zeeh of No. 47 West Union street, a member of the board of police commissioners to succeed John B. Rafferty, whose term of office has expired. The appointment of Mr. Zeeh was filed with City Clerk Cummings today. As Mr. Rafferty was one of the Democratic members of the police board under the provisions of the city charter it was necessary for the mayor to appoint a Democrat to succeed him, which the mayor has done by appointing Mr. Zeeh.

Stage Carpenter Injured.

William Roll, a stage carpenter with the Charles Champlin stock company, fell from a stage door in Didsbury theater at Walden on Monday afternoon and was seriously injured. He was unconscious when picked up and upon being taken to St. Luke's Hospital was found to be suffering from concussion of the brain. His recovery is not expected.

Shot in Newburgh Saloon.

Ralph Scott, an Italian barber of Walden, was shot four times in a saloon in Newburgh on Sunday morning. He was playing a game called morra with Nick Gafra and a dispute arose. When the smoke cleared away after the shooting Gafra was missing. Scott was not seriously injured unless blood poisoning sets in.

Luxurious Shoes

"LUXURIOUS SHOES" was the SOROSIS slogan when severity and solidity were preferred to daintiness and beauty

We did not have to get ready for Fashion's swing toward dainty Shoes.

In fact, we are largely responsible for the swing that Fashion made in that direction.

SOROSIS individual constructive art—developed Shoe beauty long before popular taste was prepared for it.

The present rage for Luxurious Shoes justifies our early tendency.

Many styles of SOROSIS Luxurious Shoes from $3.50, $4, $4.50 and $5 are awaiting your approval.

ECHOES OF THE MUSIC FESTIVAL

In the Schubert Symphony in C Major, played at the first concert of the music festival and in other orchestral numbers given, solo horn work was needed and through Conductor George H. Muller's personal friendship with H. Deutschke, the orchestra was so fortunate as to count among its members a solo performer from the world renowned "Seidl Orchestra." Mr. Deutschke played with Seidl in Beirut as well as in Germany and this country. It was a matter of regret to Mr. Deutschke, that Mrs. Seidl, who like her husband, was a friend of his, was not in town during his stay for the festival. It was furthermore interesting to learn that Mr. Deutschke was one of the musicians who played at the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Seidl. The Kingston Symphony Society was more than encouraged by the words of this man, so competent to judge of the artistic merit of the concerts of Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, just before he bade them good bye. He said: "You do and will meet with many discouragements, but do not let them keep you from going on, for you, especially the orchestra, are showing genuine possibilities such as have been shown by really great orchestras in their infancy. And you are wise to include vocal as well as instrumental music in your festival plan. By all means go ahead and succeed to you and count on me whenever you need my assistance." On Wednesday there was a considerable craning of necks in the audience, both afternoon and evening, toward the extreme right of the orchestra and with good reason. There sat our artist friend, Samuel Gardner, who had fascinated the people with his amazing performances on the violin, busily and carefully playing the tympani, otherwise the drum. And one may be sure he was doing it just as wholeheartedly as he plays the violin. Mr. Gardner stayed over on Wednesday, "to help wherever most needed," and he found that he could decidedly help in the orchestral music of "The Creation," as he did. It always takes a really great person to appreciate that service, and the best service one can give, no matter in what way, is never belittling, but shows the best there is in human nature.

The Kingston Symphony Society is rather overwhelmed by its burden of genuine obligation to the many friends who have so assisted in making their first musical festival a success it was. A debt of gratitude is due E. Winter's Sons, Maben and Walker, the Connelly Drug Company for their assistance in selling tickets and being bothered with the diagram work. Special thanks are due Charles A. Winter for his efficiency in managing all of the ticket sales and to E. Winter for assisting his brother in the ticket selling at the high school on the evenings of the festival. The society would furthermore heartily thank the young men who so efficiently acted as ushers. Nor can money entirely repay the janitors of the high school for all of their services, and gratitude is theirs. To the Benevolent Independent Order of Elks, to W. N. Conner and to N. J. Murphy the Symphony Society would express sincerest thanks for the loan of camp chairs. These are some of the friends who have helped in a material and very necessary way. Then there are those who have helped artistically, and first and foremost, the untiring, efficient, painstaking work of Conductor George H. Muller, who made such a success of "The Creation," whose efforts are most sincerely and heartily appreciated, is hereby publicly thanked. So, also, are his assistant conductors, Charles Bagley of Catskill and Harry Ennist of Phoenixia. Heartiest thanks are also given Miss Ella Osterhoudt, pianist, and Emil Kuehn for accompanying at rehearsals.

There was a large party of New Paltz people in attendance at "The Creation," and they were most enthusiastic in their expression of appreciation of the exceptional excellence of the entire performance. A most enthusiastic letter has just been received from Mr. Bagley of Catskill, concerning the Music Festival, especially the giving of the Oration. He says among other encouraging things, "I believe you will have a heartier support from Catskill next year, if you ask it, especially if some other way is provided for them to reach home." It seems that the boat trip made in an especially chartered boat, provided for the Rhinebeck, Saugerties and Catskill folk, was, due to the terribly high wind most unpleasant and time consuming. Every effort was made by the Kingston Symphony Society to secure a special train on the West Shore, for the occasion, but so prohibitive was the price—$150 for the round trip—that it had to be given up and the boat substituted. Considering the probability of "Symphony weather," this must be changed another year. "And Mr. Coke-Jephcott is a wonder, and everybody agrees on that point." Mr. Bagley further says, "But we will have to make the chorus and the crowd from up the river large enough next year to warrant a train, if the schedule isn't changed for the better by that time. The society certainly had things arranged in splendid shape. It was more than thoughtful to provide refreshments for the out-of-town singers, and to take such good care of them in every way. I certainly hope that your generosity will not be such as to make the society suffer loss. It was disappointing to see such a small audience in the evening, but I hope that the entire festival has been as much of a success financially as it was artistically. Pardon me for running on at such length, but I want you to know how enjoyable the whole thing has been—and I fear we are more likely to be lax in taking pleasure and letting it go at that than in expressing ourselves overmuch."

Special thanks are also due Harry P. Dodge for the efficient and artistic manner in which he accompanied the artists at the Artists' Concert and Samuel Gardner in the Bruch Concerto, all of the artists themselves speaking in highest compliment of Mr. Dodge's playing. Word has been received from Townsend H. Fellows of New York that he has nearly recovered from the serious cold from which he was suffering while in Kingston.

On Sunday the Rev. Charles F. Kennedy, rector of St. John's Church, called the attention of his congregation to the remarkably uplifting and stimulating effect of the Oratorio of The Creation as recently given in this city, and called their attention to the fact that with such music at our own doors it is unnecessary ever to complain that we have not good musical performances to attend.

Symphony Society's Initial Concerts Proved Very Successful.
(Special Correspondent of the Evening Post.)
Rondout, N. Y., May 28.—The Kingston Symphony Society has just brought to a most successful close its first Music Festival. On Monday evening the Kingston Symphony Orchestra, George H. Muller, conductor, gave a remarkably fine symphonic programme, the symphony being Schubert's C Major. Samuel Gardner, violinist, was the soloist. On Tuesday evening an Artists' Concert was given by Mrs. Edith Chapman-Gould, soprano; Miss Virginia Los Kamp, of Brooklyn, contralto; Samuel Gardner, violinist; Townsend H. Fellows, bass-baritone, and Benjamin E. Berry, tenor, with two numbers by the orchestra. But Wednesday was the crowning day, when a chorus of some 200 voices, recruited from nearby towns, the orchestra of some fifty-odd musicians being enlarged, gave Haydn's oratorio of "The Creation," with the soprano, tenor and bass above mentioned assisting, and Norman Coke-Jephcott, organist of the Astor Memorial Church, Rhinebeck, and also of Kingston, conducting. The auditorium, seating over a thousand was filled, and the performance was regarded as very artistic. Had the men singers of Kingston been as enthusiastic in their efforts to help the project as they might have been, the balance of tone would have been better; but the soloists were unusually good. It is planned to make these festivals a yearly event hereafter.

Maxwell

"The Wonder Car"

16 Great Service Branches—54 Maxwell District Offices—More than 2,000 Maxwell Dealers are always at the Service of Those Who Drive Maxwell Cars

When you buy an automobile you buy two kinds of service. First:—The service given and guaranteed by the car itself. Second:—The service given by the maker and the dealer while the car is in use.

The service the Maxwell car gives is known. 38,000 satisfied Maxwell owners have given the car the rough and tumble acid test of fully eighteen months' service. The Maxwell has shown that it is able to stand up under the severest use. In cities, over country roads, through mud and sand and up the steepest mountains, the 1915 Maxwell has made good for 38,000 owners.

THE SERVICE THAT THE MAXWELL MOTOR COMPANY GIVES

The service that the Maxwell car gives cannot be questioned. Any automobile owner from time to time requires service from the maker of the car he drives. He sometimes needs new parts, adjustments, etc.

16 GREAT MAXWELL SERVICE BRANCHES

The Maxwell Motor Company takes care of Maxwell owners by maintaining 16 great Maxwell Service Branches. These branches are in great cities which have been selected in such a manner as to thoroughly cover the United States. They can deliver parts to any Maxwell dealer or Maxwell owner within a few hours.

54 MAXWELL DISTRICT OFFICES

54 Maxwell District Offices are maintained in leading cities. This means 54 District Managers, each with a corps of assistants. A great big part of the work of this army of skilled men is to see that Maxwell dealers give real Maxwell service to Maxwell owners.

MORE THAN 2,000 MAXWELL DEALERS ALWAYS AT YOUR SERVICE

Each of the Maxwell dealers in the United States and Canada is an automobile expert. Anyone of them stands ready at all times to give advice and assistance to any Maxwell owner. You can tour all of the United States and Canada and should your car require the attention of an expert you will find a Maxwell dealer near at hand. If you need a replacement part, and the dealer does not have it in stock, he can get it for you from the nearest Maxwell branch within a few hours.

Maxwell owners never have their cars out of service for days or weeks at a time waiting for replacement parts.

The $695 Maxwell "Wonder Car" is the greatest real automobile value ever offered. The service that the Maxwell Motor Company gives is not surpassed by the service given by any other automobile manufacturing organization in the world.

Read This List of Expensive Features. The 1915 Maxwell Has These Features And Many Others.

Attractive Streamline Body
Pure streamline body; graceful crown tenders, with all rivets concealed. All the grace, style and "snap" that you will find in any of the highest priced cars.

A High-Tension Magneto
Nearly all the high priced cars have high tension magnetos. A high tension magneto gives positive ignition. The Simms magneto, with which the Maxwell is equipped, is recognized as one of the best magnetos made.

Left Side Drive—Central Control
Left side steer with gear shifting levers in center of driving compartment—center control—has been accepted by leading makers of expensive automobiles as the safest and most comfortable for the driver; that is why the Maxwell has it. The Maxwell is so easy to drive and control that a child can handle it.

Three-Speed Sliding Gear Transmission
All high priced cars have a sliding gear transmission. It is costly to make, but it is the best. If the motor has the power, sliding gears will pull the car out of any mud or sand. The Maxwell has a three-speed selective sliding gear transmission because Maxwell engineers do not consider any other type to be worthy of the Maxwell car.

Double-Shell Radiator with Shock Absorbing Device
The Maxwell radiator is of handsome design, gracefully curved, and it is built to be trouble proof. It is the expensive double shell type and has ample cooling capacity. The radiator is mounted to the frame by means of a shock absorbing device on each side, which relieves the radiator of all twists and distortions of the frame, caused by roughness of the road. The shock absorbing device also minimizes the possibility of radiator leaks.

The Roomy Full 5-Passenger Body
Adjustable Front Seat
The 1915 Maxwell has a full grown 5-passenger body. The front seat is adjustable, you can move it three inches forward or backward. This makes the car really comfortable for the driver. No cramped legs for tall people or uncomfortable reaching for short people. Most drivers' seats are made to fit anyone—so fit no one.

Low "Up-keep" Carburetor
The carburetor used on the Maxwell was especially designed for it after long and severe tests under every conceivable condition. Economy tours conducted by hundreds of dealers and owners in different sections of the country have proved its efficiency, its quick response to throttle and its extremely low consumption of gasoline. It has been termed the "low up-keep" carburetor.

Irreversible Steering Gear
The greatest margin of safety has been provided in the steering gear of the 1915 Maxwell. The Maxwell irreversible steering mechanism is of the expensive worm-and-gear type and its superiority over every other type lies in its many adjustments. At no time is more than a fourth of the bearing surface of the gear which operates the worm in use. When needed, a new bearing surface may be had by adjusting the gear a quarter of a turn. In short, the Maxwell steering gear has four times the adjustment of any other kind.

Heavy Car Comfort
What surprises most people is the smooth, buoyant riding qualities of the Maxwell. The spring suspension of the 1915 Maxwell is the same costly combination of long semi-elliptical front springs and the three-quarter elliptic rear springs that is used on most heavy weight, high priced cars. The Maxwell offers you every essential of the highest priced machines at a fifth of their cost.

One Size of Tire—Anti-Skids on Rear
The Maxwell car is one of the easiest cars in the world on tires. Maxwell owners carry but one spare tire and but one size of spare tubes. Economical 30 inch x 3 3/4 inch tires are used all around. A famous make of anti-skid tires are supplied on rear wheels.

A Dependable Electric Starter
For $55 extra, you can have your Maxwell delivered equipped with the famous Simms-Huff electric starter. This starter is efficient, trouble proof and easily operated.

And the Maxwell is completely equipped from the clear vision, ventilating windshield at the front to the spare tire carrier at the rear.

The Maxwell Company's Guarantee of Service to Maxwell Owners

No other automobile is backed by a more reliable service than that guaranteed every Maxwell owner. More than 2,000 Maxwell dealers—in every part of this country—are always ready to give expert advice, to make adjustments, and to supply new parts at reasonable prices.

This splendid Maxwell dealer service organization is perfected and completed by the chain of Maxwell owned and Maxwell operated Service Branches. Sixteen great Maxwell Service Stations are so located throughout the country that a Maxwell dealer can supply any part for an owner within a few hours if not in his stock. Maxwell Service is one of the great advantages enjoyed by Maxwell owners.

Order a Maxwell from us now, and when you want it delivered, we will give you your car—not an excuse on delivery day

MEMORIAL DAY ADDRESS BY MAYOR

Mayor Canfield's address at the Memorial Day mass meeting in the new high school building on Monday evening, was as follows:

It is fitting that we should gather here tonight to purify and steelify our patriotism in the memory of those who saved our country and prevented the south from divorcing the north. It is fitting that we should honor those who died in the memory of those who brought honor to us. It is proper that we should honor those whose crown of honor was purchased so dearly by the willingness and the exercise of that willingness to place the interests of their country before and above that of their own. It is well that we stop and lend our ears, and our minds to the call of patriotism so that this honor will not become a fleeting honor or a decaying honor. It is honorable for us to honor those who did not once banish faith and loyalty in and to their country, and who were gripped by that active honor that counts.

Long had this flag waved on high as the flag of our whole country, and they of the north believed and concluded that it should continue so to wave and not be torn down in any part of the country. They did not listen to the false voice of partition and bisection of our nation. Factions had no part in their patriotism. It was a patriotism of oneness for the whole country and not of halves or division. They did not listen to the call of selfish and personal interests, nor to the voice of home comforts; but they did listen and they did respond to the music of patriotism created within their beings by their love of their country and of other human beings.

We must realize that these men are entitled to occupy a post of honor in our mind, and that they have a deserving claim upon our thoughts, and that there is due them a feeling of gratitude and of obligation.

The south mistakenly thought that victory to the north would spell ruin to them. They mistakenly thought that the existence of slavery was necessary to the growth and development of the south. They believed that the elimination of enslavement would wreck and prostrate the south. They believed that if the chains of bondage were broken their resources would be submerged and swept away. They knew that the severance of a diseased and decaying limb from the beautiful tree of freedom would not affect the vitality and strength of that tree; but they did not realize that slavery was an unsound, unhealthy and blighted condition. They knew that this country was like one huge tree spreading its protecting branches and its sweet liberty giving foliage over the entire land from Canada to the gulf and the land of Mexico and from the Atlantic to the Pacific oceans; and they realized that it could not be split in its trunk of independence, in its branches of equality, and in its roots of freedom, without paralyzing its trunk, and causing its roots and branches to wither and droop, and causing it to totter and fall. They thought, however, that they were injecting, and that slavery was injecting, strength, power, vigor and vitality into the nation, while the north knew that they were reducing the strength, impoverishing its power, enfeebling its vigor and shattering its vitality. The south thought slavery was the most useful and the right arm of the government and in their perspective there was only the left arm as a foe; but they forgot, and they saw not the body of our government, its foundation of freedom.

They of the south knew that the removal of a malignant growth from anything would purify it and make it a new and fresh lease of life and strength, but they did not recognize the fact as the north did, that slavery was a cancerous growth that was encompassing the breath and enfeebling the heart of the nation. They almost crushed the nation not realizing that it would have crumbled. The south thought they were right; and the north knew they were right. Both were sincere in their beliefs, and courageous in their convictions. As a result we had a five years convulsion of clash, cannon and carnage.

Time has told us, however, that the south really and in a true sense, a goodly part of their strength to flow through the arteries of war to this diseased arm of slavery, giving it a temporary artificial life by the sacrifice of their vitality. They gave billions in property destruction, deterioration and expenditures, and they also gave about one-quarter of a million of noble lives.

The south underwent a mighty change. It was purified but weakened by this great transitional and ammunitional operation. It was in a stage of convalescence for many years. It had to assume a new form and it had to merge itself with that which it had rejected. It had to mould itself with that which it had refused to accept. It had to be reorganized and remodeled and regenerated. When they regained their strength and stride and reason, without the anchor of slavery, they developed faster and better than they otherwise would have or could have done.

Today the population of these eleven states is nearly seventy-five per cent of the whole United States in 1860. Today, the capital invested in manufacturing industries in these eleven states is double the total amount invested in the whole United States in 1860. The cotton product today of these states is quadruple the production of the whole United States in 1860. Four times as much timber is cut, nearly three times as much iron is mined, three times as much coal is mined, in these eleven states today as in the whole United States in 1860. The railroad mileage of these states at the present time is more than double that of the whole country then. The capital of the banks of these states is nearly double and the deposits triple, that of the entire United States in 1860. The amount expended in conducting the schools of these states is one hundred and fifty per cent greater than the total amount expended throughout the United States in 1860. Many other favorable and similar contrasting figures and conditions could be given. The figures given, however, suffice to impress us with the fact that the south has thrived, and that in many ways it now surpasses the whole United States as it was in 1860.

This grand result is due to the manliness, firmness and valor of the boys in blue of whom Kingston city and Ulster county furnished more than its fair proportion. Hope and confidence and love of country fed and filled their minds and hearts and urged them on to success. The clock of time has checked off fifty years since he of the blue and he of the gray returned to their respective homes. The recollection of that return must be a sweet and pleasing memory to the few who remain with us here; but the thoughts of those in the homes where the beloved one did not return must have been sad and mournful. As to most of those who did return, nothing is left of them here but a majestic memory. The memory of what was then is bitter to contemplate, but the memory of what is now is sweet to associate with. On the page that was then memory wrote with dark, mournful, black letters, and on the page that is, memory has written with light, legible and shining letters.

Let us always revere the image, consecrate the memory, and cherish the thought of those who in the sixties took honor and loyalty in their right hand, and danger and death in their left hand, with their country pictured in their mind, and their flag of oneness planted in their hearts, and repainted those eleven stars in the field of blue to remain there forevermore.

Accuracy First Typewriting.

No educational institution is more quick to adopt and apply an idea of proven soundness than the Moran Business School, of this city. This is demonstrated by the alacrity with which Prof. W. W. Harries, C. P. A., the expert instructor of typewriting in Principal J. J. Moran's school, has appropriated the accuracy first typewriting method, in connection with which a typewriting company is offering prizes to commercial school students who attain high speed in typewriting, which must, however, be accompanied with accuracy. The report of the first contest held at the Moran Business School has just been received from New York, and the following students have been awarded prizes: Ethel Madden, Elizabeth Howard, Frances Herrick, Frieda Menzel, Grace Wenzel, Maurice Low. The results of the typewriter company's contests, and the results being attained at the Moran Business School, as the result of expert, individual instruction, prove one thing very convincingly. That is, the old-fashioned methods of incompetent teachers of typewriting will have to take a back seat in favor of the accuracy-first system, which is destined to minimize incompetence to such a degree, that employers will soon engage only graduates from the school qualifying these skilled and accurate stenographers and typists.

PICTURESQUE FROCK.

Lingerie Gown That Makes Wear-look Like Frameless Picture.

PRETTY EVENING DRESS.

"Ah! Isn't she a picture?" is heard once in perhaps a very long while, and immediately every one within hearing covertly or frankly turns to look at what promises to be a pleasant vision. And these "pictures" have not been any too plentiful recently, particularly in the not long gone period of tube skirts. But fashion now holds out the pretty promise that it is the thing to be picturesquely dressed, and the woman who comes nearest to looking like a canvas belle that's lost her frame will elicit the biggest buzz of admiration.

This gown is picturesque in the extreme, being a combination of wonderful old lace and hemstitched taffeta. The underskirt is of accordion plaited pink chiffon. The bodice is décolleté and sleeveless. The sleeveless bodice is very becoming to a young girl.

GOSSIP AND ADVICE.

Scrap Books Excellent Way of Conserving Much Valuable Information.

Many times you have seen in a magazine or newspaper an article or suggestion that you determined to save—and then either lost the magazine or clipping or threw it away during some cleaning up period. Why not reform? One woman of methodical habits keeps a series of scrap books for just such articles and finds this a very neat and effective way of preserving ideas for future use.

One book is marked "Garden." In this book she has pasted every illustration or item of information on the subject that has interested her. There are pictures of trellises, arbors, pergolas, water gardens, benches or bordered paths, which she hopes to be able some time to add to her own garden; suggestions about flower or vegetable culture; advertisements she wishes to keep for reference; garden plans from various garden magazines, etc.

The other half of this book is devoted to notes on her own garden—dates on which she has planted, her success with various plants and seeds, the garden expense account, and any point that she may wish to recall at any time.

Another book is marked "House." In this she keeps articles and suggestions on household decoration. Samples of calicoes, denims and upholstery materials; illustrations of fireplaces, window seats, cupboards, stair railings, etc., that have appealed to her. Here, too, are written down the dimensions of each room, the number of windows and amount of material needed for curtains, the dates on which the last papers, rugs and curtains were bought, and the price of these. This system saves much time and trouble when a room is to be redecorated, for all the necessary information is at hand.

A large part of the book is devoted to the kitchen. In these pages are all the suggestions that have interested her. There is a list of various brands of tinned goods, cereals and other foodstuffs. This is labeled "Pure Food Products," and only tested and approved brands are listed.

In the kitchen pages also are pasted notes on or advertisements of improved utensils and labor saving devices—washing machines, mayonnaise mixers, butter churns, silver cleaning pans, in fact, any approved labor saving device that she may wish to purchase.

In this way every item of household information that has interested her is preserved in accessible form with very little trouble. Recipes are not put in the scrap book, as they occupy little space and are more conveniently kept in a card index box on a shelf.

SPORT AS A SIDE LIGHT OF WAR.

Even in war times, the German soldier answers to the call of his natural love of sport. The photographs were made in the Carpathian Mountains, where German troops on reserve from the firing line, were given an opportunity to fish and to exercise their marksmanship on other than human prey. Picture on left shows a number of successful German soldier-hunters proudly bearing to camp the trophies of their skill. Picture on right is a snapshot of German devotees of the art of Isaac Walton enjoying their favorite sport on Lake Wier, in the Carpathian theater of war.

REO "SIX"THE SIX OF SIXTY
SUPERIORITIES$1,385 F. O. B. Lansing*1915 Reo's Are the Most Popular Automobiles in America Today and Are Built by the Second Strongest Financial Automobile Factory in the World*No New Reo Models
No Cut in Reo Prices

JUST AT THIS TIME when so many makers are announcing new models or new prices or both at an untimely, illogical season, it is good to know that there is one maker whose product is standard. One in which no radical change in design has been made—because none was necessary—in several years.

AND IT IS GOOD TO KNOW that there are to be had, automobiles of definite and permanent value.

IT'S MIGHTY DISCONCERTING, not to mention expensive, to buy a car and, before the season had half begun, find its value in the open market has been cut in two. Makes you ponder—how much is it really worth after all?

REO NEVER MAKES mid-season changes. We consider it most unfair to buyers and it deprives the product of a stable value.

BESIDES, IT WOULD BE IMPOSSIBLE for us to stop the Reo plants even for a day right in the busiest season to bring out a new model—thousands of buyers are standing in line all the time waiting for the Reos as they come from the factory.

REO QUALITY CARS at Reo prices—that tells the story. And in that too, you'll find the reason for two things—why Reo needs not change—and why others must.

REO PRICES ARE RIGHT—and both Reo models are right. We are not experimenting—why should you? Better order your Reo at once—delay is dangerous.

A young doctor, making a start in a small town, decided that to be prosperous he must look prosperous. He bought a new buggy and two good horses. Although he had only a few patients he always kept on the jump, attending to his patients' smallest needs. People began to notice this young doctor driving about town and they called him because he looked busy and prosperous. He got his start—a start that led to a comfortable practice.

A town, like this doctor, must look prosperous to be prosperous. Clean streets, attractive store windows, well-painted buildings and dwellings give the prosperous air. Well-painted buildings are greatest of these.

Dutch Boy Atlantic White Lead

and Dutch Boy linseed oil make a most durable and protective paint that keeps buildings well painted. These materials can be mixed to suit conditions and tinted any color desired. Sold by all good dealers. Better get in touch with your dealer in the interests of prosperity.

JUNE 2

The character of this person is on a clean, moral plane. The temperament is artistic, unreliable, difficult to understand and suffers from a sense of injustice over trifling things.

It requires love, patience and calmness to deal with this person. The nature, however, responds instantly to a display of affection, but through love of praise may often be deceived.

The nature is also generous, kind and reverent, and when religious, very set in its way, refusing to see any other point of view save its own.

Gemini is the sign governing the birthdate and Mercury is the planet.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, June 2.—There were many vigorous advances in the stock market in the early trading, which attracted renewed attention to the recent offerings and reflected confidence in the political situation. General Electric was the most prominent feature, rising three points to 159 and the same amount of gain was made in Bethlehem Steel, which rose to 148.

Fractional gains were made in United States Steel Common, Amalgamated Copper, Union Pacific and Reading. Many specialties including Pittsburgh Coal, Crucible Steel and American Can made substantial upturns on small dealings. Steel Common crossed 55, showing not only a complete recovery of yesterday's loss, but a gain of 1/2 of Saturday's close.

The trading element regarded this as the most important feature of the market.

Noon.—The strong tone, which prevailed at the opening, was well upheld in the late forenoon, with prices of many issues showing material net gains over Saturday's final. Canadian Pacific was the chief feature, that stock advancing a point to 155 1/2, a gain of over two points from Saturday. Erie advanced 1/2 to 28; Union Pacific 1 1/2 to 125 1/2; Reading 1/2 to 143 1/2 and Southern Railway 1/2 to 16 1/2.

2:30 p. m.—In the first half of the last hour prices ranged under their noon level. Steel dropped 1/2 from 55 1/2 to 54 1/2. Missouri Pacific held around 12. Amalgamated Copper, Anaconda and Union Pacific were fractionally lower.

The stock market closed firm; government bonds unchanged, other bonds firm.

MENKE'S DAILY SPORTING LETTER

(By Frank G. Menke.)

New York, June 2.—The brightest golfing stars of the United States will twinkle during the National Open Golf Championship Tournament which will be staged at Baltusrol, June 15-18. The affair will be robbed of its international interest because the war in Europe prevents the participation of some of the foreign cracks, but there's enough brilliancy among the American stars to make the affair one of the most important the golfing world has ever seen.

The entry list closes Tuesday, June 8. Nearly 75 of the best golfers in America already have entered, or signified their intention of entering into the contest, and it is expected that the participants will number 200—and probably beyond.

Francis Ouimet, Chick Evans, Jerome Travers, William Travis, Tom McNamara, W. B. Hagen, the "boy wonder," Louis Feller, Isaac Mackie, J. J. McDermott, Walter Forgue, R. G. MacDonald, Oswald Kirkby, Fred Herreshoff, F. S. Douglas, McDonald Smith and a score of other American golfers of international fame, are certain to be among the contestants.

The competition will be medal play, and will be arranged as follows:

Tuesday, June 15.—Qualifying round of 25 holes. One half of the total entrants will participate and the lowest 32 scores will qualify.

Wednesday, June 16.—Qualifying round of 36 holes for the other half of the entrants, the lowest 32 to qualify.

Thursday, June 17.—Qualifying round of 36 holes for the 64 golfers who qualified during the first two days. The lowest 16 out of those 64 will qualify for championship play.

Friday, June 18.—Championship round of 36 holes, the lowest golfer winning the championship. In case of a tie, the tie will be played off on Saturday, June 19, the competition being 18 holes.

Here are the list of prizes, to be divided among professionals: First, $300 in cash, a gold medal and possession of the championship cup for one year; second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $80; fifth, $70; sixth, $60; seventh, $50; eighth, $40; ninth, $30; tenth, $20.

If the score made by an amateur should entitle him to any of the above, he shall be given a suitable trophy in plate.

The entire amount of money will be divided among professional contestants—and in determining the award, the scores made by amateurs will be eliminated.

The entrance fee is $5 and must be received by Howard F. Whitney, secretary, 7 Broad street, New York city, not later than 5 p. m. Tuesday, June 8.

When You Can't Smoke

that's the time to chew LIBERTY. When you can smoke—that the time to choose LIBERTY.

This pure Kentucky tobacco is the great favorite with men of vigor. It is full-bodied and satisfying. It gets its pleasant richness from the natural aging we give it for three to five years. And that is what keeps its quality up, always the same, no matter what the year's crop may be.

LIBERTY Long Cut Tobacco

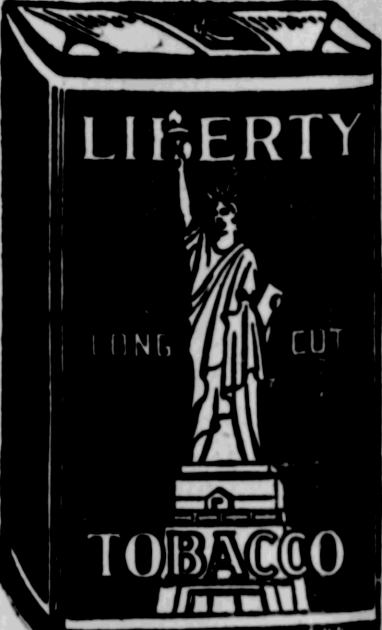

has always given prime pleasure to many men. A LIBERTY man never switches to another brand; he knows he's losing time and pleasure on a needless experiment. Many brands come and go into the discard—while LIBERTY holds old friends and makes new ones every day.

There's a snappy taste to LIBERTY that policemen and other big fellows like. It's got that man-size quality about it; not one of those insipid, next-to-nothing tobaccos—but the big king-brand for the he-men on the force.

A week's trial will make you a permanent user of LIBERTY—go to it today.
